Two people take turns rolling an N-sided die. The object of the game is to roll a higher number than the previous roll. Failure to roll a higher number results in losing the game. Assuming player one rolls first, what is the probability that player one wins the game?