Problem of the Week
Week # 22

Consider a rectangle, tiled with, say, five rectangles, something like the figure below.

Assume that each of the small rectangles, the tiles, is semi-integral, meaning that the length of at least one side of each tile is an integer. Does it follow that the given large rectangle is semi-integral?